A WARNING TO LABORERS

ONE regrettable feature of the rise in silver and the inauguration of new work in Tonopah will doubtless be the influx of people seeking work. A majority of them, if they rush in, will be disappointed and they will suffer distress or become a burden upon the community. There are still some idle men in the community and they will be given preference in positions and after that, should the demand be greater than the supply, it will be announced in the Bonanza.

But in the meantime, miners and other artisans are warned not to come to Tonopah, as it is on the verge of winter and there are possibilities that extensive additional work will not be undertaken before spring. What the Bonanza desires to emphasize is the extreme risk that an unemployed man with a small amount of ready money runs in coming to this town, even though its outlook is at present better than at any time in its history.

CARNEGIE WILL DIE COMPARATIVELY POOR

ANDREW Carnegie's benefactions to date amount to $400,000,000 and it is stated by one of his closest friends that the residue of his fortune amounts to only $20,000,000 and that a majority of it has been bequeathed to charity, leaving his family but a modest competency.

It is all very well for us penny-a-liners, when in a caustic mood, to cavil at the generosity of the former ironmonger, but really the record he has shown is one that should be held up to the world and given the white light of publicity. Mr. Carnegie may have or may have not used unfair, unjust and even illegal methods in accumulating his wealth, but he has dissipated it where it would do the most good. The world is immeasurably better for the intelligently and charitably distributed four hundred millions. He pauperized no one by making him the recipient of his beneficence. It was expended almost entirely in the advancement of education and the rewards of merit and heroism.

Mr. Carnegie, the Bonanza will not wait until after your death to present a word of eulogy.

FORD PLAN IS FUTILE

GOVERNOR Miller of Delaware, known by all in Tonopah by reason of his connection with the Tonopah Mining Company of Nevada and the Tonopah and Goldfield railway, which causes him to make such frequent visits to this city, has declined to become a member of the Ford peace party. This is not because Governor Miller is not an advocate of peace in warring Europe, but because he realizes the futility of the exposition.

There may be no questioning of the good intent of Henry Ford in this plan. It may not result in his selling over 100,000 additional vehicles, but such a movement would not be recognized if headed by manufacturers, professional philanthropists or even state officials.

Peace proposals must come from the government of the United States itself, as even the representative on earth of St. Peter has found his efforts fruitless. Mr. Ford may have the best of intentions. He may be ready to lay down his millions to bring about an end to the war, but the only intervention that might prove efficacious must come from under the great white dome at Washington.

AN EXTREMELY AWKWARD SITUATION

THERE are on the docket of the United States Supreme Court the so-called 5 per cent rebate cases. They involve a tremendous sum in customs revenues, loosely estimated at between fifteen and twenty million dollars, collected under the provisions of the Underwood tariff law. On the court's decision hangs the fate of these millions. If the Supreme Court upholds the 5 per cent rebate provision in the Underwood law, then the sum in dispute belongs to the foreign importers and must be paid back by the government. The treasury deficit long ago became alarming. If this enormous additional sum has to be paid out, it will still further emphasize the failure of the Democratic fiscal policy. On the other hand, if the Supreme Court decides that the 5 per cent provision of the Underwood law is invalid, the highest court in the land will have convinced the Democratic congress of a humiliating blunder, and still further emphasize its record of legislative inefficiency. The fact that the Attorney-General, in order to save the revenue involved, is attacking the validity of the law congress worked six months to pass, makes the situation still more complicated. From a political standpoint, the best thing that could happen to the Democratic party in this case would be to have a decision go over until after election.

AN EAST AS WELL AS WEST

MUCH mystery attaches to the various deals that have taken place and are still taking place for the control of properties on the flat west of Tonopah. It is assured, however, that recent developments prove conclusively that the ore zone is not limited to the original working properties of the district, but that it continues out under the debris of erosion toward the setting sun, although it is also conclusive that the ore lies deeper there than are the shafts that have hitherto been sent down to reclaim it.

A year ago a famous suit was tried in Tonopah. It developed that in the center of the camp, right under Brougher avenue, the main cross street of the town, there was the apex of an anti-clinal roll, at least the court has held that such is the case.

To the westward the capping grows heavier and heavier. May not this also be the case with the eastward continuation of the zone? The flat out on the Manhattan road is just as pregnant with possibilities as the one in the direction of Millers. The anticlinal roll is possibly the top of the ore bearing formation, except for where it actually crops at the base of Mt. Oddie. Interest centers at present to the westward, but there is also a great, undeveloped east that clamors for attention. The potentialities of Tonopah are but in their beginning of demonstration.

CLIPPED AND CREDITED

"Drink a Highball" has been dropped at the University of Pennsylvania. Another anti-treating crusade?—Philadelphia Ledger.

Scripture asserts that faith can move mountains. At Panama General Goethals believes in supplementing faith with shovels.—Spokesman Review.

It is said that 50,000,000 copies of ragtime songs were sold in the United States last year. And some people wonder at the increase of crime.—Albany Argus.

Only the Shah of Persia is permitted in his country to dye horses' tails crimson for six inches from the tip. That leaves a lot of tail for others with crank ideas.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The latest peace plan provides that something in that line shall come when the Kaiser reaches Constantinople. But, like the trip to Tipperary, it is quite a hike to Constantinople.—Los Angeles Times.

Purdue students not to be allowed to have nightshirt parades and bust up movie theaters in Lafayette after a football victory? Gosh! what's life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness coming to in this country, anyway.—Indianapolis News.

Bryan says he would rather be right than a successful politician, but the trouble is that he is neither.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

We shall next hear that Postmaster Burkitt has been dismissed for insulting George Washington by stamping him in the face.—Boston Transcript.

The president of the International League says there is a lean year ahead for ball players. There are several behind some magnates. Indianapolis Star. Here's another point in favor of Corranza. He has decreed that there shall be no more bull fights in Mexico. More power to his whiskers.—Albany Argus.

"A Kansas woman has asked the judge for a divorce on the grounds that her husband writes poetry." We prefer to believe his offense was trying to write poetry.—Toledo Blade.

"I love you," said May Irwin to the president, "and I have always loved you, even before you were president." Is that the way to talk to a newly engaged man, May?—Detroit Free Press.

Upwards of one billion eggs, it is said, lie in American cold storage houses, which it had been expected the allies would buy. Why couldn't they be available now for ammunition?—Baltimore American.
